The Mystic Tye Podcast'

Dear Members of the Metropolitan Study Group

We have some exciting news.....For over one hundred and fifty years, the Societas Rosicruciana in Anglia has pursued its founding mission quietly, rigorously, and away from public view: to investigate the philosophy of Hermes Trismegistus, the secrets of the Kabbalah, and the meaning and symbolism of the wisdom, art and literature of the ancient world.

Now, for the first time, that work steps into the open. 'The Rosicrucian' is the first global publication to emerge from the SRIA, the world's oldest independent society of Masonic Rosicrucians. Produced in partnership with Lewis Masonic, its purpose is to bring the mysteries of the Western Tradition into the light, in a voice that is scholarly in its foundations and accessible to every sincere seeker.

The first edition is devoted to Hermeticism. From the Emerald Tablet to the Corpus Hermeticum, this is the tradition attributed to Hermes Trismegistus that stands at the very root of the Western esoteric project.

A landmark publication from a living tradition!

The Chief Adept of London, Alexander Rofaila, discusses 'The Rosicrucian', (amongst many other aspects of the Western Mystery Tradition) on the latest episode of the 'Mystic Tye' Podcast, hosted by the indomitable Troy Spreeuw, in British Columbia, Canada.

The Mystic Tye began as a small conversation between brothers and grew into a broader dialogue on Freemasonry, esotericism, and the philosophy of the Craft. Episodes range from the history of the higher degrees to the interior work each Mason takes up in silence.

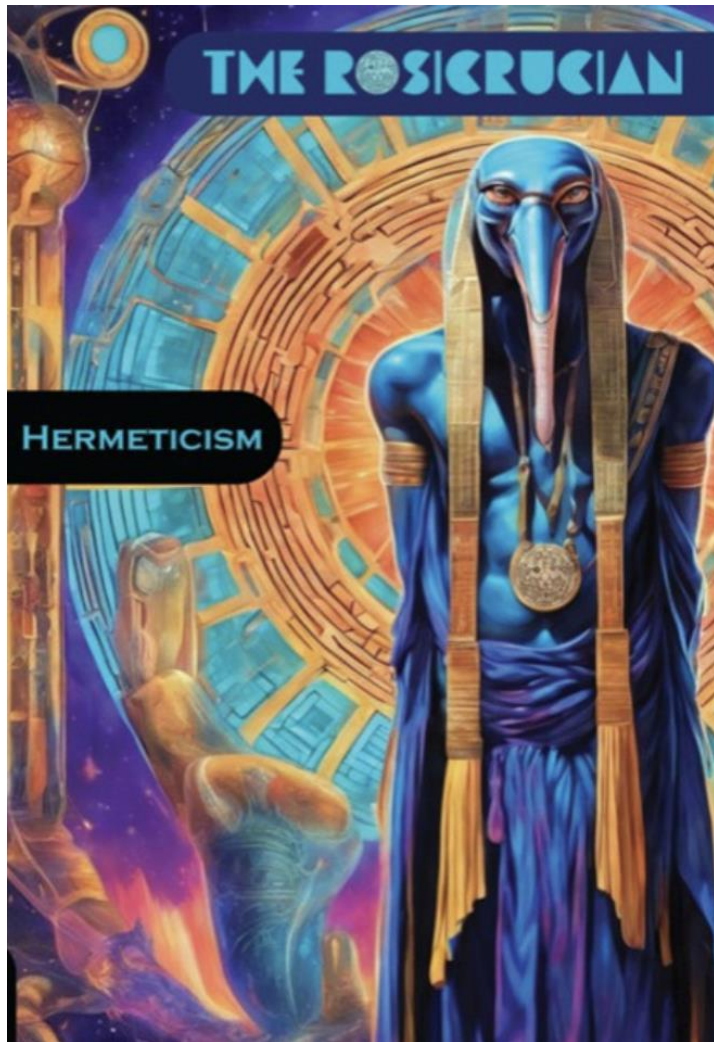

Beyond the podcast, The Mystic Tye organizes Grand Masonic Day and helps steward the Esotericism in Freemasonry Conference — gatherings where the digital conversation becomes an embodied one.
